

THURSDAY IS LATEST DAY FOR A REPLY

U. S. READY TO ACT WITHIN 48 HOURS IF CARRANZA FAILS TO MAKE SATISFACTORY ANSWER.

WILL TAKE PART IN MEXICAN OPERATIONS

General Tasker H. Bliss, commander-in-chief of the department of the east, and is expected to play a prominent role in Mexico should war come. He began his army career as an artilleryman and was appointed to West Point from Pennsylvania.

IS SILENT THUS FAR

Mexican Representative at Washington Has Not Received Word That U. S. Note Has Reached First Chief.

Washington, June 27.—There were clear indications today that if American cavalrymen captured by Mexican troops at Carrizal were not released within forty-eight hours, action would be taken by the United States.

The impression prevails in official circles that the President would not wait until Thursday at the latest, and possibly not beyond tomorrow afternoon, for a definite reply from the Carranza government to the note demanding immediate release of prisoners and a declaration of intention.

War Department Active.

While the diplomatic aspects of the crisis awaited Carranza's action, the war department drove forward its efforts to hasten mobilization of the national guard on the border. It is certain no aggressive military operations can be undertaken until a substantial number of state troops are available to the United States.

President Wilson's first step, should he decide to force the issue, probably would be to lay the whole situation before Congress in joint session. It is believed he has informed members of the foreign relations committee of both houses in his conference with them Sunday.

No Word from Carranza.

The Mexican embassy has not even been notified by Carranza of the receipt of the American note. Mr. Arrondo said he had not heard from his government since he communicated the receipt of the note to Carranza and Central American republics in regard to their mediation.

Discussion of the Mexican crisis occurred today in the first session of the cabinet. When it was over, Secretary Lansing announced there was no change in the situation, that the administration was awaiting word from Carranza and that Secretaries Baker and Daniels were ready to carry out any orders that might be given.

Mediation a Dead Issue.

Mediation of the dispute with Mexico was dropped today and 12,000 national guardsmen were ordered to start for the border to enforce the Carranza government's demands on General Carranza's government. Secretary Lansing said today that even a formal proposal of mediation by the United States would be rejected by the Carranza government.

Embargo Cripples Supplies.

San Antonio, June 27.—The embargo on exportation of supplies into Mexico from the United States already has affected the Mexican army, according to reports received here. It became known today that the Carranza government recently left Nuevo Laredo because they were unable to obtain forage for their horses from this side of the border.

The situation on the border is serious, where 1,500 Mexican troops are being held on trains, aroused widespread speculation here. General Funston has announced that American officers were sure they had fathomed the design of this Mexican movement, and reinforcements were sent to the American force at Naco and entrenchments have been thrown up there. The stress placed on the fact that Mexican troops were not allowed to leave the cars on which they were loaded, is taken by some officers here as indicating a possible move against the other portions of the west Mexican border.

The armored motor truck recently assigned to the troops at Fort Sam Houston has proved its efficiency. When tried out late yesterday, it counted for one mile wagon, one automobile and one cow.

Recut Regrets Break.

Brownsville, Texas, June 27.—United States Consul J. H. Johnson, who visited Matamoros last night and finally closed consular affairs there, held a conference with General Alfredo Ricalte, commander of the Matamoros district, during which an effective scene occurred.

It is possible in event of a break of relations between our country and Carranza, said Mr. Johnson, according to the latter, "half an hour before it occurs I may have the pleasure of shaking hands with you and General James Parker, commanding the border patrol at Fort Brown, at the international bridge."

Tears filled General Ricalte's eyes as he made this statement, Mr. Johnson said.

Military authorities began preparation today for the national guard, which is expected to reach Fort Brown the latter part of this week.

El Paso, June 27.—Evidence that the possibility of war with the United States has healed the breach between the Carranza and Villa factions in Mexican politics, continued to pile up here today. More than one hundred wealthy Mexicans who, prior to the surrender of the Villa garrison of Juarez last January, had been active in supporting the bandit leader, and who since have been in El Paso, crossed the Rio Grande and apparently were received in good favor by authorities of the de facto government.

Russian positions southwest of Soledad, in Volynian, have been stormed by General Voronov's troops, and held against counter attacks, according to an announcement today. Several hundred Russians were taken prisoners.

Fighting in Persia.

Constantinople, June 27.—The following announcement was made at army headquarters today: "In Persia Russian troops of all arms under protection of their fortified positions, made an attack on June 26, against our forces east of Saville. The engagement lasted until evening. The Russians finally withdrew with considerable losses. Washington, June 27.—Secretary Lansing today promised a committee representing various branches of the shoe and leather industries he would endeavor to have lifted the embargo placed on raw hides by Russia and other European countries.

The committee told Mr. Lansing that solely because of the embargo hides had already advanced an average of a dollar a pair, and the price was likely to go higher. They said the hides most needed were calf skins, which were of no particular use for military purposes.

FUNSTON IS PREPARING FOR ACTION

AMERICAN GENERAL MAKES ALL ARRANGEMENTS FOR QUICK ACTION THROUGHOUT BORDER ZONE.

MILITIA ON THE WAY

Additional Eastern Troops Entrain, Swelling Total Number of Guards Already Sent South—Mexican Troops Concentrate.

San Antonio, June 27.—General Funston and his staff searched every report from all border stations today for some kind of hostilities on the part of Carranza's army that he pouring into northern Mexico, but the real work of department headquarters was the supervision of the multitudinous details incident to preparing the American force for efficient action.

Overnight and early morning reports from El Paso, Eagle Pass, Brownsville and other headquarters posts, indicated no active aggression by Mexicans and only brief reference was given to bandit activities anywhere. The information brought to border commanders from the interior of Mexico, continued to show the steady strengthening of the Mexican army in the north and tended to support the report that bandit leaders are being welcomed gladly by Mexican officers, and are being given commissions in the "de facto" government army.

Could Act Instantly.

Units of the American army have been stationed in such manner that almost instant action could be secured by the commanding officer here. No relaxation of efforts to starve the border towns and ranches from bandit supplies has been paid, but more attention has been directed toward the thousands of men along the border from Brownsville to the extreme west in what is in effect a line of battle.

The activity at Naco was explained today. Information has reached headquarters that the Mexicans have planned to sweep across the line to the Colorado river, where they have a storehouse of copper, meeting concerns. The 22d infantry was rushed from Douglas to Bisbee last night.

5,000 Guards Start.

New York, June 27.—Nearly thirty-five thousand national guard troops from twelve states in the department of the east are under orders to start today for the Mexican border, or are already en route. Two Massachusetts regiments and two batteries of field artillery from New Jersey started last night.

Mustering Continues.

Chicago, June 26.—Mustering activities in the territory comprised in the central department of the United States army were confined today to infantry and cavalry to make the troops available for service on the border at the earliest possible moment.

No Orders for the movement of troops have been issued, it was announced by Major General Barry.

Statement issued today by him reports that at the Wisconsin camp the organizations are preparing rolls and administering anti-typhoid prophylaxis.

Mustering Illinois Battery.

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—Battery, so-called "millionaire battery of Chicago," was mustered in this morning after having stayed up all night. Shortly afterward four a. m., was mustered in. Lieutenant Louis R. Dougherty, federal muster officer, said he has reported these batteries and also B battery, "fairly well equipped."

A number of Mexican women and children also left for California, where their husbands and fathers returning to Sonora.

The senator informed the Indians must restrain their patriotic desire to fight for their country unless there was a call for volunteers.

YOUNG MEN INVITED TO BE PRESENT

MASS MEETING AT CITY HALL AT EIGHT THIS EVENING TO DISCUSS FORMATION OF MILITIA COMPANY.

M. G. JEFFRIS TO SPEAK

Department Commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, Carl Buchholz, to Preside—Music and Good Speaking.

"Then a Soldier."

"Full of strange oaths, and bearded like a pard, Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, Seeking bubble reputation Even in the cannon's mouth."

—Shakespeare's Seven Ages of Man.

Just follow the band and the flag tonight and be present at the mass meeting at the Assembly room of the city hall when plans for the formation of a militia company in Janesville is discussed.

The Bower City band will furnish the musical inspiration on the streets. The members of the Harry L. Gifford Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans will meet at their headquarters thirty and shortly later will march to the city hall behind the band, with the flag flying and with them will be the members of the former war—the men's fight Sixty-One—who will march to the city hall where the meeting is to be held.

Carl Buchholz, department commander for Wisconsin of the United Spanish War Veterans, will preside. M. G. Jeffris, William H. Dougherty, and others will be called upon for addresses and the Lakota Club quartet will sing several patriotic selections.

There will be a thorough discussion of the question of the organization of a military unit of the Wisconsin National Guard in Janesville and the speakers will be ready to answer all questions pertaining to the organization and purpose of such a company.

Among the business men the impression is that the organization of such a company would be most advantageous to the community. The fact that the auditorium of the city hall is a military unit of the Wisconsin National Guard in Janesville and the speakers will be ready to answer all questions pertaining to the organization and purpose of such a company.

The names secured tonight—not less than sixty-five being accepted—must be of young men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five, are merely for a petition to the governor for the formation of a military company and signifying the signers' intention of joining the company when formed.

This company when organized elects its own officers and completes its organization for being mustered into the state guard. Thus far nearly half of the required number of signatures have been obtained and it is expected the remainder will sign up this evening. Young men are especially urged to be present and sign up for the formation of a company here.

The directors of the Commercial Club at their regular Monday noon meeting passed the following resolution:

The Resolution.

The effort being made by the citizens of Janesville to organize a military company to become a unit of the Wisconsin National Guard is commendable, and should receive the enthusiastic support of the people in general—and as it seems a most appropriate time to form such an organization and believing the patriotism of our people can best be demonstrated through the medium of a military body, be it resolved that the Janesville Commercial club, represented by its directors here assembled, do heartily commend and endorse the formation of a military company in the city of Janesville.

Janesville Commercial Club.

Petitions passed throughout the city have been signed liberally by business and professional men asking that a company be located here and the present call comes from Adjutant General Holway who asks that the signatures be forwarded at once to the governor that action may be taken at once. Janesville has the chance of being the first company enlisted under the new federal statute for the increased Wisconsin guard.

IMPORTANCE OF WAR PHASES OVERSHADOW TRIAL OF CASEMENT

Interest Is Lacking in London in Trial of Man Charged With Inciting Irish Rebellion.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, June 27.—The second day of the trial of Sir Roger Casement for high treason opened with no change in the apathetic attitude with which the general public regard the case.

The principal reason offered for this lack of interest, is that the attention of the country is focused upon the contention where what possibly may prove the decisive phase of the great war is at a crucial stage on both the eastern and western fronts.

The atmosphere of the court room is not that of a trial for life, and the chief justice was compelled yesterday to insist that there must be no laughter in court. The laughter was evoked by the repartees of the Irish soldier witnesses.

Prisoner Is Cheerful.

The attitude of Casement himself is far from being one of gravity. He appears neither crushed nor subdued by the seriousness of his position, and takes the proceedings in a most casual manner.

The prisoner appeared to be in a cheerful frame of mind, as he entered the dock, although he displayed little of the jauntiness shown at the preliminary examination.

The prosecution resumed the introduction of testimony immediately. The witnesses were the same as those called at the preliminary hearings, and few new points were brought out during the early proceedings. Witnesses gave accounts of the movements of Sir Roger and his companions, Captain Robert Monteth, and Daniel J. Bailey, from the time their landing on the morning of Good Friday in a boat from the German submarine near Tralee, until the arrest of Sir Roger.

Former Witnesses Testify.

John McCarthy, an Irish farmer, described finding the boat in which the three men were said to have landed, and told of finding him on the beach, two handbags containing maps, revolvers, etc.

Mary Gorman, a servant girl, identified Sir Roger as one of three men she met hurrying away from her early Friday morning. She was followed by Thos. Hearty, a sergeant in the Irish constabulary, who told of tracking Sir Roger to a house in the vicinity of which he arrested him. Hearty identified revolvers, maps and a flag of the revolutionists, which were found in the handbag.

There was a stir in the courtroom as the big green emblem of the rebel was spread out in the center of the room and all eyes turned toward the prisoner. He shifted uneasily in his seat, and then leaned back with folded arms, smiling nervously as he gazed at the flag.

PROSECUTION RELENTLESS, SHAMES BOY

STATE HAS ITS INNING AND ORPET HIDES FACE AS HE TELLS OF INTIMACY WITH MARIAN.

GRILLS HIM ON STORY

Attorneys Go Over Youth's Testimony Given Yesterday—Not Engaged to the Younger Girl.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Waukegan, June 29.—Will H. Orpet, charged with murder of Marian Lamb, resumed his witness stand today. Attorney Ralph Potter of the defense immediately asked about the water and molasses which Orpet sent to Marian "to relieve her mind." One of these bottles he sent to her, the other he brought to her on February 9, the day of her death.

"I bought the bottle of six ounce size of Otto Peterson and filled it two-thirds full in my room," he testified. Yesterday he said that Marian, when he met her in Helms' woods, refused to accept it, saying "that will not do me any good." Orpet was in better voice than yesterday and talked with more assurance and more connectedly.

Thought "Things Looked Bad."

"Why did you tell State's Attorney Dady that you were at Madison on February 9?" asked Mr. Potter.

"Well, the way things were, I thought it would look bad," replied the witness. The witness was then turned over to the state for cross examination.

He told of being brought to the jail at Waukegan. "I talked to my father, Mr. Hanna and Mr. Wilkerson," said the witness. The latter two are his counsel.

And some reporters suggested Mr. Potter.

He identified a magazine clipping dealing with potassium cyanide as an insecticide. The chemical was kept in the green house of the McCormick estate, of which Orpet's father is superintendent, and the supply he gave him the clipping, which he showed to Percy Longland, an undertaker, who worked in the greenhouse, and then took it to Madison, where he showed it to a chemical instructor. The instructor said that the Orpet should buy cyanide 130 percent pure.

He made a note 130 percent on the clipping and returned it to my father by mail," said Orpet.

Relations With Miss Youker.

Potter asked: "A chemical instructor, Percy Youker, an undertaker, who worked in the greenhouse, and then took it to Madison, where he showed it to a chemical instructor. The instructor said that the Orpet should buy cyanide 130 percent pure."

"There was a tacit understanding between us. I had known her six years," Orpet answered.

"Did she return your affections?"

"At all times?"

"Not always."

"You were engaged?"

"No, there was an understanding. No date was set for our marriage. I had never even formally asked her to marry me. No date had been set."

Mr. Potter asked: "The witness said certain answers Orpet was reputed to have made to various reporters at the time of his arrest. The principal one was this: 'Did you tell Mr. Dady or anyone else that you saw Marian take poison?'"

"No, I did not,"

"And other girls?"

"No, I did not. I remember that Marian and I were engaged."

Interrogation of Auto Ride.

By Attorney David R. Joslyn, who is assisting State's Attorney Dady. He asked about an automobile ride which Marian and Orpet took last September.

"Did you drive with both hands on the wheel?" asked Mr. Joslyn.

"Not that I can remember. I can't pretend to remember all such little things."

"Well your best recollection?"

"I don't know."

"You could drive with one hand."

"It was a very bad experience. The relations between the young pair passed the bound of morality, the witness admitted."

"What did you say to Marian?"

"I don't remember."

"Well, make a guess."

"I can't guess, as that would be independent of any real memory."

"On the way home did you make love to her?"

"I think not."

"You were in love with her, were you not?"

Orpet hesitated a minute, then replied: "Judging from my letters later, I think not."

Letters Indicate Love.

"Oh, you were desperately in love with her, weren't you?"

"Not then. That came later, judging from my letters."

"You can't remember independently of the letters, how your love developed?"

"No, sir."

"Early in your correspondence, after returning to the university, you did tell her that you loved her, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Joslyn called attention to a letter which the defendant wrote to Marian last September in which Orpet told Marian everything she did interest him. In another letter he spoke of "this kind of weather makes me think of fusing."

TONIGHT'S MEETING.

This evening at the city hall, the question of whether Janesville is to be presented as a unit of the Wisconsin National Guard is to be decided. The mass meeting of the citizens is called to instill enthusiasm into the campaign for signatures for the possible company and also to explain many questions that have prevented many of the young men from thus far signing the application blanks.

The opportunity to secure for Janesville a national guard company is most opportune and there should be a unanimous sentiment in its favor. Many of the residents of Janesville have joined military organizations in other cities because Janesville did not have a home company and with the wealth of excellent material, the spirit of patriotism displayed on many occasions, there is no reason why the proposed Janesville organization should not be quickly recruited and become not only an honor to the city, but the state as well.

THE LAST BULL MOOSE.

The famous Bull Moose party is no more. Colonel Roosevelt gave it a death blow in his strong and virile letter denouncing the nomination for the presidency offered him, and urging the endorsement of him, and urging Judge Hughes, the republican nominee for president. The national committee of the political organization that was created four years ago as a protest against methods of the republican party, voted to accept Colonel Roosevelt's recommendation and passed an endorsement of the republican nominee. Thus ends the life of a national political organization and the consolidation of the two elements of the republican party into one compact formation that will present a united front at the coming election and doubtless assure the choice of a republican president and a republican congress at the November election. The Bull Moose is dead. Pax Vobiscum.

COMING EVENTS.

With the Fourth but a week away and the program for the day's entertainment practically complete, the Janesville and Rock county fairs but six weeks further on, a circus or two coming along, ball games and band concerts, it would appear as though the residents of Rock county were to be given their share of festivities during the coming weeks of summer.

Fair week also to be characterized by a Home Coming week, which bids fair to bring back to Janesville hundreds of former residents who will delight in visiting old friends and making new ones. Noting the development of the city and the changes that have taken place, Home-Coming week will be one of exceptional interest to both the local residents and to the visitors and the citizens should put their best foot forward and have the city ready to meet the visitors with open arms.

Much has been said and written about the reputation that Janesville has for planning and carrying out unique and interesting celebrations, which assures an exceptionally large crowd from all parts of the country. The fame of the Nonesuch Bros. burlesque circuit, the unique Janesville institution, is such that from coast to coast mention is made in the press of its taking place.

As to the Janesville and Rock county fair, it might be said that during the past few years Rock county has made wonderful strides in both the dairy and the cattle industry and the display of stock shows at the two exhibits will be one of the best in the entire state this season. The directors of both fairs are working hard to bring about the fairs under their direction to a successful issue and unless weather conditions intervene they give promise of being far superior to former attempts. While both fairs are early for agricultural displays, still this deficit is made up by the cattle and excellent fields of race horses that fill the cards. The fame of the Rock county tracks for fast performances is known to the harness horsemen and they all take advantage of the purses offered to at least make a showing against the big fields.

WAR AND TRAINMEN'S WAGES.

"How the nation's necessity to move more than 100,000 men and their equipment and substance to the Mexican border will affect the attitude of the railroad brotherhoods in respect to their demand for new working conditions, suddenly becomes an interesting and delicate question. There is no reason to suppose in advance that organized railroad men are any less patriotic than any other similar number of Americans. On the contrary, one brotherhood leader has already declared that if the country comes to grips with Carranza the railroad employees will postpone their personal grievances and turn in for the good of the nation," says an eastern exchange.

"Here is a hopeful prospect of a truce in the deadlock in which the conferences between the brotherhoods and the companies in this city ended last week. The brotherhood chiefs left that meeting with the intention of asking their constituents for authority to call a strike on all the railroads of the country, if they should otherwise fail to obtain an acceptance answer to their demand for an eight-hour wage day and premium pay for overtime. It is almost inconceivable that the brotherhoods should in the face of a grave international situation, persist in even the threat to tie up the railroads.

"What the one leader has declared the others should not hesitate to endorse in unequivocal terms. It will be sufficient if they merely entertain the sentiment in private. To a man the members of the national guard are responding to the president's call, with little thought of the personal sacrifices involved for many thousands among them. Employers of a comparative few of these volunteers have so far promised them at least part of their ordinary pay while absent on military duty. The rest must wait the issue, whatever it may be, and have given to sign of reluctance to do so. It is not to be asked that too much of the end result of the training that they resolve forthwith not to cause any interruption in the orderly operation of the railroads while the nation is in trouble.

"Nor should the subordination of personal interests be all on one side. Railroad managers might well come forward with the promise that their men should not lose anything of their just deserts by putting national interests above their own at this time. They could do this by agreeing that findings of an arbitration board in favor of the men, when the pending questions come to be settled, shall be retroactive, if not to the beginning of the recent negotiations, at least to the date of the last movement of troops. By so doing they would impress upon the men an equal desire with them not to take advantage of a national calamity, and would fortify the companies in the public confidence. Indeed, such a condition has frequently been attached to wage arbitrations not attended by circumstances of military necessity."

THE FIRST JOB.

A host of young fellows just out of school and college are this month for the first time drawing a regular pay envelope. No wages earned in later life, even if much larger, ever looks quite as good to them as the first Saturday night payment. To many it means a financial independence of their parents of which they have long dreamed.

The agile fingers of a boy often command a range of pay quite out of proportion to what he should earn later on. A fifteen year old youngster feels mighty proud earning a good sum a day folding circulars. He swaggers around in the leading places of the town showing his roll, and treating the girls. But let him reflect that if he were to fold circulars all his life, he would never get much more than that.

Most young men are anxious for big pay quick. They can not afford to wait. They want their automobiles now and they do not want any old-fashioned four-cylinder machines either. They are looking for short cuts, success, and are impatient with the hard path of steady and sure progress.

The thing for them to consider is not how much money they are getting for a start, but whether they are in some place that is educating them for better things later on.

In many employments requiring the finer discriminations, the new man is practically useless for a year or two. He may be paid a little something to encourage him, but he makes more mistakes than his wages are worth. But all the time he is learning things that may be of great value to him. He should reflect that a business training must be paid for as well as a scholastic one. A position in which good pay can be earned at the start is not apt to lead to anything much higher. The size of the salary is a sign that the work is too easy to learn, and that it leads to no further advancement.

What an awful shock it will be to Mr. Wilson and Mr. Hughes, when the official notification committees call around with the surprising and unexpected news that they have been nominated!

It is not recalled that any of those anti-American meetings were being held in Mexico during the years when our people were spending hundreds of millions down there to develop their resources.

The man who buys the high-priced automobile is frequently the same one who just sold at a big sacrifice the machine that a few months ago he called just a peach.

Aaron Smythe was selecting a summer suit. As our story opens, he had been selecting it for thirty-three minutes.

"Now I'll just try on the blue one again," he said to the bald but patient salesman. "It's between the blue one and the brown one—I mean the gray one."

"You mean the checked one, don't you?" said the salesman.

"Do I? Yes, the checked one," said Aaron Smythe dazedly. "Now I'll try on the brown one—I mean the checked one. I've tried on so many, I really— Here it is," said the salesman. And he helped him off with the blue one and on with the checked one. And so it went for seventeen more minutes.

"Murietta," said Aaron Smythe to his wife that night, "you'll love the handsome purple suit I bought at Schrunchfield's today. No, it was a light red one—or was it mauve? No, it was purple. Only $45, and that includes letting out the shoulders, taking in the back, shortening the sleeves, lengthening the buttonholes and widening the knees."

Just then the bell rang. It was Schrunchfield's wagon delivering the suit.

It was a green one.

DONALD NOT AFTER CONSERVATIVE AID

Secretary of State Denies He Intends to Seek Nomination on Conservative Ticket.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., June 27.—So far as John S. Donald, secretary of state is concerned, there will be no coalition of his interests with the conservatives who gather here on July 12 to name a state ticket and adopt a state platform. Since the progressive conference has endorsed Meritt Hull for secretary of state there has been considerable talk that Donald and State Treasurer Henry Johnson would seek the endorsement of the conservatives. This talk was silence today by Secretary of State Donald, who said it would not be contended by him; that he was a progressive and when ever he asked for position it would be under the banner of the progressives.

There has been a lull in the work and activity of the conservatives owing to the illness of Gov. Philipp. Now that the executive is rapidly recovering, it is believed that his first appearance will be at the conservative convention, which will again name him for governor. By those close to things political it is claimed that there will be a sharp contest over the secretaryship at the conservative conference. Paul Schmitt of Oconto, is an announced candidate for the position. He was the candidate on the Philipp ticket two years ago.

Announcement was made here today that the progressives will open their campaign at once. A conference of the officers named as candidates at the convention has been called to meet at Madison on Saturday, July 1, to talk over the situation. This conference will probably elect a campaign manager and a secretary and the work of preparing literature will be started.

Cleaning Brass.

To clean brass first clean off all dirt with a stiff brush dipped in warm water and carbolic soap, and wipe dry. Now take equal quantities of emery powder, calcined magnesite, and powdered bathbrick, mixing all together. Moisten a rag with paraffin, dip it into the powder, and rub the brass until bright. Finish with a clean duster, applying a drop of methylated spirits.

CELEBRATE FOURTH A WEEK FROM TODAY

JANESVILLE CITIZENS' COMMITTEE HAVE DETAILS COMPLETED FOR BIG OBSERVANCE IN THIS CITY.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE

Everything in Detail Completed by Various Committees—Something to be Done Every Minute.

Jansville Celebrates the Fourth. A week from today will be gala day for Jansville and for a radius of many miles. The Bower City is going to put on one of its big celebrations. From early morning to late at night when the last "sizzler" has sputtered its last spark the day is going to be one grand round of gaiety and patriotism. The Fourth is going to be an entire day of grand and free amusements. Something is going to be done every minute and everything is absolutely free.

Bigger, better and grander than ever is the slogan of the Citizens' Committee and its various sub-bodies in charge of different arrangements. Practically every detail has been completed by now and at the present time it is figured that the plans are even more elaborate than those made for any other celebration of this kind.

The committee in charge of Col. N. C. Grady, of Portage, the speaker of the day, will arrive here during the morning and will leave from the train to the court house at 11 o'clock. Mr. Grady will deliver a silver-tongued oration, a natural speaker and with a bright and sunny nature and a disposition to change from laughter to pathos in an instant. He is full of wit and humor and is regarded as among the first public speakers of Wisconsin.

Miss Evelyn Welsh will read the Declaration of Independence at the park. The Rev. Father William Mahoney, assistant pastor at St. Patrick's Catholic church, is chaplain of the day.

Many people here have never seen daylight fireworks and the committee realizes that they have a good opportunity to give them a good show. There have been purchased for the Fourth until the morning of the celebration it will be unable to determine at just what points in the downtown district the actual display will be released. It all depends on the direct force of wind and should the points of release be decided on now, chances are that the beauty and value of the feature would be carried out of sight of the crowds.

Four bands have been engaged to furnish music throughout the day. The Jansville Military band will be used exclusively for concerts throughout the business section during the day. Edgerton, Evansville and the Bower City bands will also give concerts but will be in the parade of the afternoon and evening.

Negotiations are under way and it is possible that all business houses will be closed on Tuesday and the citizens will all stock up the larder on Monday, the day before the Fourth.

A special committee representing the Jansville Federation of Women's Clubs and working in cooperation with the Citizens' Committee, will establish a fund for the day, through the city. A big emergency fund will be made in the court house park. Dr. W. H. McGuire has donated his service for the day and is ready for instant call in case of accident.

Chief of Police Champion is planning for a large extra force of plain and uniformed officers. Traffic cones are to be stationed at all the downtown corners while other swift patrol cars formerly. The plain clothes men will be imported to take care of any pickpockets who seek to make capital with the big crowds which will be in the city.

The committee in charge of the torchlight parade of the evening is having a hard time collecting torchlights for this feature. The idea was to hold a revival of the old torchlight procession of former political days, but with the gradual dying out of these methods of candidate advertising the torchlight has also gradually passed into oblivion. A batch of torches was ordered to Chicago firms brought the reply that after a search of practically all warehouses of firms dealing in antiques of such nature, only fifty-six torches were found. This number would be less than a tenth enough. The committee, however, has discovered an excellent substitute for the old torchlight and although much more expensive, they have decided to purchase these lights rather than not to put on the parade after advertising it so extensively.

Restaurants and boarding houses are preparing to handle the excess crowds. Proprietors of all these business places realize the enormous crowds which visit Jansville when the "Jansville celebrates" goes forth. Expectations are that there will be close to twenty thousand people here for the occasion and under circumstances considerable extra plans have to be made to care for the great crowds.

OBITUARY.
Mrs. Michael McGloves Kemmett, funeral services for the late Mrs. Michael McGloves Kemmett were held Saturday morning from St. Andrew's church, at Delavan. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery at that place. The Rev. W. A. Goebel of this city officiated. The pallbearers were William Devine, Joseph Kemmett, Leo Kemmett, Frank Larkin, Edward Larkin, all grandsons of the deceased, and a cousin, William Cummings, of Delavan.

ELEVEN APPLICATIONS FOR CIGARETTE LICENSES
Eleven applications have been filed at the office of City Clerk J. F. Hammarlund for cigarette licenses to be issued July first. Last year thirty-eight licenses were granted. It is believed there will be a decided reduction in the number of licenses granted this year, as the dealers have showed no great desire to obtain licenses, for the dealers, because of the small profit made from the sale of cigarettes.

RECRUITING OFFICE TO OPEN TOMORROW

Federal Army Office to Be in Carle Block—Can Enlist Without Parents' Consent.

Jansville's recruiting station for the regular army, with Corporal Arthur A. Peters, S. A., in charge, will open tomorrow in the Carle block, at 207 West Milwaukee street. Men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five years of age and who can pass the physical requirements are eligible for service. Corporal Peters stated this afternoon: "I have received orders that any man over eighteen years of age can enlist without their parents' consent. The removal of this restriction will undoubtedly enable him to secure many more recruits."

Physical examinations will be given at the local office. Some of the main requirements are that the person wishing to enlist can read and write the English language; he must have good teeth, good eyesight, be over five feet three inches in height and weigh over 115 pounds. Men who want to see active service can enlist in any department of the regular army at the local office. A period of not less than thirty days and not more than forty is required for training before the recruit is sent out for one year. This man was examined at the postoffice where a temporary office has been maintained for the past few days. The new office will be thoroughly equipped and will be open on Wednesday. The rooms are located on the second floor of the Carle block, at West Milwaukee and Franklin streets.

The thieves picked the lock on the postoffice and after ransacking all parts of the building, dynamited the safe, taking about twenty-five dollars worth of stamps. At the Grady store the safe was also blasted open, and the yegmen found only a dollar in currency.

ANOTHER WARRANT IN CLINTON CASES

Case is Dismissed Against Hugh Bennett After Second Warrant Had Been Served on Him.

Several more chapters were completed in the Clinton cases brought today by Morris Lerner, which the attorney defending Hugh Bennett, called a "Birdville suit" because of its unimportance, in the municipal court this afternoon. Hugh Bennett was first arraigned on the charge of assault and rioting with others in an alleged attack on Lerner. Attorney M. O. Mout, representing him, appealed to the court to dismiss the action on the grounds that there was a similar case pending.

Judge H. L. Maxfield sustained the motion, dismissing the complaint and discharging the defendant from custody. The prosecuting attorney, E. H. Carpenter, then swore out a warrant charging plain assault which was filed and served on Bennett in court. Then came the lengthy arguments about the complaint giving security for costs. After the lawyers had cited cases, and argued for half an hour, Attorney Carpenter offered to dismiss the case against Bennett. This the court allowed. It was then announced that another warrant would be sworn out against a Clinton man for assaulting Lerner in which the rioting would be brought out. Bennett was allowed to leave the court and start for his home in Chicago, for it appeared he was but a visitor in Clinton when the alleged riot took place against Lerner.

Frank Willeman, of Milton Junction, pleaded guilty of assaulting Louis Saunders, a woman about eighty years of age, at the Junction on June 22nd. He was fined the minimum amount of ten dollars and costs, amounting to $12.50. It was alleged Willeman assaulted the aged lady after trouble over land which both claimed.

HA! SCISSORS

SCISSORS
Scissors were suggested by jaws. The inventor of the scissor is unknown (unless it was Mr. Scissor), but it is very easy to imagine—especially when one is highly salaried and fabulously subsidized for imagining just such absurd things—how the idea of scissors came to him. Mr. Scissor (we will call him) or hero was bitten by a lion, tiger, yak, ostrich, or flamingo, and was momentarily resentful. Being an inventor by nature and birth, however, he lost little time in dismissing his resentment and turning his experience to utilitarian advantage.

Before his wounds or bites were even carefully bandaged he was working out the scissor as we have it today—crude in its earlier forms, it is true, but embodying the fundamental principles of the modern household and office scissor.

We can imagine him coaxing the ferocious flamingo into his laboratory for research purposes, chaining it upon a pedestal and locking its face in iron braces so that he could study its jaws minutely. The thumb hole and finger hole, as we have them in scissors today, were of course his own conceptions. These two details were in no wise suggested by the flamingo. So was born the scissor.

It is hard to say how we would clip bond coupons, cut hair, paper dolls, pants or twine, or peel apples, if it were not for scissors.

Who Is To Execute Your Will?

The average individual named as executor knows nothing of the puzzling intricacies of probate procedure. At the same time his acquaintance with the decedent's family and business affairs may peculiarly fit him for the position.

The appointment of a reliable Trust Company as co-executor is most advisable in such a case. The individual has the same authority as the company, yet is relieved of much responsibility, and the estate receives the benefit of the company's experience in business-like settlements.

New Order From War Department Allows Boys of 18 to Enlist Without Parents' Consent.

Adjutant General McCann, U. S. A., yesterday ripped the lock from a barrier to boys enlisting in the regular army.

Without issuing previous notification he dispatched orders to recruiting officers throughout the United States to accept boys between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years without consent of their parents.

"The act of congress approved June 3, 1916, 'The National Defense Act' as amended by this department, renders unnecessary the parental consent to enlistment of persons between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years, and authorizes the enlistment of any person under eighteen years of age who is able to meet the requirements and has the consent of his parents or guardian," the adjutant general's order reads.

Sweeping in Scope.

This is the most sweeping order ever issued to regular army recruiting officers. It counteracts fully any parental application of the sentiment of the adjutant general's order that "I didn't raise my boy to be a soldier."

Beginning today the mothers of America are powerless to prevent enlistment of their sons if they are eighteen years of age.

The interpretation placed on the adjutant general's order is this:

The United States army is sadly in need of troops. The country needs more soldiers and needs them at once. The demand for them has been growing daily, especially young men with the fire of youth.

Mothers to Protest?

Recruiting officers realize they will be besieged by scores of patriotic mothers who are spread among young men. This is because a large proportion of applications for enlistment are made by minors, strong, healthy young fellows who wish to go with the colors.

Hundreds of minors placed mentally with regular army officers to accept them as soldiers. There are scores of calls at the various offices every week from mothers demanding their sons be rejected. Heretofore the law compelled the officers to reject boys under these conditions. Beginning today these self-same boys, providing they pass the examination.

The army will go out of its way to speed young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years, make the best troops. This is because they are generally unattached and because their ideals of patriotism have not been dulled.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Why is it that husbands and wives so seldom stay united on the screen? Alice Joyce and Tom Moore played opposite each other for months and were voted an ideal pair of screen lovers by all of the fans. After their marriage they separated, each doing work in a different studio, and while as Mr. and Mrs. Moore they have been very happy never again have they been screen lovers.

Pretty Marie Doro, of fame, who had her good looking husband, Elliott Dexter, making love to her in moving pictures, has now left the old flock and from henceforth will be seen in other features.

"POOL OF GNOMES" IN KELLERMAN FILM

"The Pool of the Gnomes" is a scene which indicates better than any other the character of the forthcoming, Annette Kellerman super-movie, "A Daughter of the Gods."

Miss Kellerman, as the Dream Maiden, enters a gnome village. The gnomes are about to imprison her in a mine when she is rescued by a fairy prince. The gnomes' distrust of her turns the prince to a pool in a forest hung with moss and she performs her best swimming feats for their entertainment.

These scenes constitute one of the most beautiful and imaginative parts of the spectacle.

In the depths of the pool the dream maid sees into the world of mortals, and visions her lover, the prince in danger and his city in turmoil. She summons her gnome friends to the rescue, and the grotesque army of gnomes on donkeys rush to the aid of the prince.

The fairy takes a hand, and the gnomes on donkeys are transformed into giant warriors on chargers. The warriors are shown dashing across the screen, while the middle and rear of the cavalcade shows the prince and his army of gnomes, who are replaced by the giant fighting men. The pictures of the gnomes' world, made in the tropical forests of Jamaica.

A three-reel western now being made by Director George Marshall is entitled "Well Represented." Harry Carey is featured in this as the leader of the Diamond Ranch cowboys, who inherit his father's estate on condition that he go east and manage it for a year.

Alice Joyce.

This is a new picture of Miss Joyce. She is now working on a huge spectacle entitled, "The Battle Cry of War," a sequel to the success of last year, "The Battle Cry of Peace."

A year, Neil Hart, William Quinn and Rose Golden are the principals supporting Carey in the photoplay.

Neil Shipman is a happy girl these days, for her father and mother have moved to California from their home in Seattle, Wash., just to be near her. Miss Shipman has leased a bungalow in Hollywood for them.

AT THE APOLLO.

Japanese Artists in "Alien Souls." Famous in the annals of Japan as one of the leading actors of the far east, Sessue Hayakawa, plays a series of appearances in photoplays produced by Jesse L. Lasky, steps among the ranks of photoplay actors into the list of stars with his production "Alien Souls," today at the Apollo.

Hector Turnbull wrote "Alien Souls" as a study in the conflict of the East and West, a people of opposite races. In this photoplay Hayakawa will appear as Sakata, a Japanese curio dealer who is brought in childhood to Yuri Chan (Tsuru Aoki). The two come into the world, he to engage in business and she to obtain an American education, which is shown in a light of absorbing interest as they move and live in American society. Suddenly the girl becomes infatuated with a young American. It is here one discovers the intent of the photoplay by a series of stirring dramatic scenes in which is brought home Kipling's well known epigram:

"East is east and West is West,
And never the twain shall meet."

AT THE APOLLO.

Geraldine Farrar on Wednesday. The announcement that Geraldine Farrar appears as the star in another Lasky feature play company production, following the unprecedented success of "Campanella," is of intense interest to every photoplay devotee in the world. Not even her wonderful career in grand opera overshadows Geraldine Farrar's achievements on the screen, where she occupies today a position unsurpassed, and where she has set an artistic mark that probably never will be reached.

Miss Farrar's characterization of the fiery Carmen will remain forever in the memories of those who have seen her in the photoplay.

TSURU AOKI AND SESSUE HAYAKAWA IN "ALIEN SOULS."

Among the most popular stars of the dramatic stage of Japan, where they have been favorites for years, Sessue Hayakawa and Tsuru Aoki are making reputations for themselves as American motion picture players. They have completed for the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, a photoplay in which they are starred entitled, "Alien Souls," at the Apollo tonight.

Hayakawa, who comes from a family of famous Japanese dramatic artists, was a student in the University of Chicago. Upon his return to the Pacific coast several years ago he resumed his position as leading man with the famous Madame Yano, then on a tour of the Western states. In this company he was the pretty little actress, Tsuru Aoki. Together they appeared in the motion picture production of "The Wrath of the Gods" and Hayakawa achieved a photoplay fame in support of Fausto Ward in "The Cheat." "Alien Souls" Cheat."

photoplay each succeeding dress appears more beautiful than the one before.

Julia Swayne Gordon, who also portrays one of the leading roles, wears a number of exquisite creations. One wrap which was especially beautiful was a gold satin opera cloak brocaded in gold velvet which is greatly raised from the satin itself. The sleeves are very full and fashioned in a wing effect. A large collar of blue fox is used with this evening wrap.

INHABITANTS OF ISLAND OF CORFU GET RICH OFF ALLIED TROOPS STAYING ON ISLAND

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Corfu, Greece, June 27.—The "Corfuotes," as the Greeks call the inhabitants of the island of Corfu, are out to make their fortunes during the brief sojourn of the 150,000 Serbs and some 50,000 French, British, Italians and Greeks, strangers to the island. The Corfuotes are of Venetian blood—descendants of a long line of pirates and corsairs and possessed of a romanticism which makes them, instead merely of doubling their prices, stand ready to put them up ten times—and smile blandly about it.

The Serbs came out of Albania with ragged uniforms and blankets. They had to buy everything anew, and the Corfuotes were there to furnish it. The Serbs are well paid (out of the coffers of the entente) and it is impossible for them to send money home to their families even if they want to. Consequently the Corfuotes ask whatever price they like and the Serbs, having nothing else to do with the money, generally pay it. The result is a rich-quick operation in Corfu, however, were speculative, not commercial. When the Serbs arrived on the island, a beaten army without a country, what they brought with them in the shape of money was largely Serbian currency. The Corfuotes generally would not accept it but a few wise heads had the real value of their trading ancestors and bought the Serbian paper in at 37 centimes the dinar, a depreciation of 63 per cent. The Corfuotes decided to guarantee the reconquest of Serbia and the refitting of the Serbian army began in earnest, there was a boom in Serbian paper. Instead of 37 centimes the dinar it brought 90 and finally, for all practical purposes, war. In a few weeks those who had bought at 37 had almost doubled their capital.

STRONG ACTING IN "THE MOMENT BEFORE"

Pauline Frederick, However, is Not as Charming as Usual.

Portraying a role unlike her former style, Pauline Frederick did some vigorous acting in "The Moment Before," shown at the Apollo yesterday. Due to many the thought came, "She's nearly so pretty as she usually is." As a evsuy she was not her usual charming self, and there was an overabundance of death scenes. The play served, however, in showing the versatility of this wonderful actress.

WOMAN COULDN'T GET HER BREATH

Is Now All Right Since She Has Used Tanlac, The "Master Medicine."

Enthusiastic over her quick recovery of health through use of Tanlac, Mrs. Jennie Miller, of 502 Water Street, Racine, endorses the great medicine, as follows:

"I suffered terribly from catarrh of the head and throat and was unable, apparently, to get relief although I tried everything. I was in a bad way. I had great difficulty in getting my breath through my nose and my throat would fill up causing much spitting and coughing. I always had a bad taste in my mouth, especially in the mornings. I was subject to severe headaches. I became run down and listless and it was an effort for me to do anything. I slept badly.

"I tried Tanlac on the recommendation of a friend who had used the medicine and been benefited. I can't begin to tell you all that Tanlac has done for me, but I will say that it has made a different person of me. My catarrh is relieved. My head has cleared up and I have no difficulty in breathing. I do not have that bad taste in my mouth any more. My stomach is in good condition and my appetite is good. I have more energy and feel full of life all the time. Tanlac has done this for me and I am only too glad to endorse it.

Tanlac may be obtained here at the Smith's Drug Store, 14 West Milwaukee St.

THE NEW CLARION

By... WILL N. HARBEN

Copyright, 1914, by Harper & Brothers

They could not hide the excitement they were in. They spent the day's morning about in the mountains and the nights confabulating together in their room. Sometimes they would get the proprietor of the hotel to tell them what the dead man had mumbled in his delirium.

As you and your gentle readers may well imagine, the whole matter got in a ferment in the neighborhood. Nothing else was talked of, at the fireside, in the field, office or place of business.

The Indian fellows that had come seemed to give up, or pretended to give up, for they went their way as silently and mysteriously as they had arrived. But what happened after they left?

With all the lynx-eyed ability of their forefathers they had overlooked a thing that little boy, this twelve-year-old son of one of our most highly esteemed farmers, discovered by bare accident when he had his pet's shotgun out hunting yesterday.

He ran across a big, flat-sided boulder of gray limestone, a mile or so from town facing due east. On it were some letters that had evidently been made by the dead man with a brush and oil paint. They were fully six inches in size and, while washed with the piteous rains which have recently fallen, were distinctly discernible. They were:

T. D. G. A. G. M. E. S. M. S. D. I beg leave to relate his discovery to his pa in the presence of our esteemed town clerk and others, and you may well imagine the excitement thus promulgated. Needless to say, the spot was promptly visited by everybody who could possibly climb the rugged steps and cross the yawning canyons intervening between Elktown and that interesting goal.

Your correspondent happened to be among the first to view with his own eyes the discovery, and he, for one, raised his voice positively that the dying stranger who passed into the vast unknown with sealed lips with his own hand painted the letters on the rock as a landmark to guide him back to the hidden treasure.

Such excitement has never been known since Lee's surrender. I beg leave to resign myself, respectfully and admiringly yours,

THOMAS L. KEITH.

"Ain't that aunner?" Abner asked, as he finished reading. "I don't know what Keith he is, but he must be some kin o' old Uncle Tommy Keith over there. The Keiths in that section are as thick as flies in August.

"Now, we must get to work on 'set this up in type. Put the biggest headlines on it you possibly kin get up, and above all, mum's the word. The news may reach Darley overland before our paper is out, but we'll hope not. It would tickle me the best in the world to see the folks openin' the New Clarion tomorrow an' runnin' across an item like that just as ef such news was an everyday matter with us."

Howard was about to reply when he was arrested by a step on the stairs, and Frank Raymond entered. "I have a political item for you," he said. "I have just heard it from a reliable source. Henry W. Polton has come out in the governor's race and will make a strong candidate. It will be important news for southern dailies. I have just wired it to Atlanta, Charleston, New Orleans, Chattanooga and Nashville, under a new arrangement I have made for special news."

At the foot of the stairs Raymond met Pole Baker going up. "Is Uncle Ab up there?" Pole asked. "Yes. I've just left him. Want to see him?"

"Yes. You remember I told you about the fuss betwixt Howard and Fred Craig?"

"Yes, and it made me anxious, for I saw him down the street this morning. We must keep the two apart. There will be trouble if they meet."

"That is what I want to see Uncle Ab about," Pole went on. "He's worried, too, and I can set his mind at rest for a few days anyway. Craig has just gone to Nashville. His sister is sick and telegraphed him to come up. For once in his life he was sober. Maybe the two will cool off by the time he gets back. I hope so anyway."

CHAPTER XII. A Hard Blow.

AS he was walking past the public wagon yard in the next block Raymond saw Tarp circulating about among the groups of men and women and children gathered about their wagons, and he paused for a moment to watch the active young merchant. Presently Tarp left the yard and approached Raymond.

"You've caught me at it," he smiled. "This is the sort of work that I can't trust to my help. Nobody knows as well as I do how to honey-fugle mountain men and women, especially women. I can just take one sweeping look at a farmer's wife or daughter and tell whether they are looking for hats, dresses or cloaks, and I always put in a word that stirs their curiosity and makes them crazy to get to my emporium of utility and fashion."

"If I think a woman wants a hat I just tell about what a wonderful trimmer Miss Bessie Williams from New York is and what a stunning dresser she is, and they'd rather see her than the president's wife. I notice you come down from the Clarion office." Tarp's eyes held a far-off look of anticipation as he spoke. "Anything new on tap?"

"Something has happened, but I don't know what it is," Frank answered. "They don't act fur with me, J. L. I put them on to every bit of news I scrape up. Look how I worked for them at their big dinner, and yet when they run on a plum they eat it seed and all."

Tarp's eyes shone. He reached out and took hold of Raymond's lapel and thrust a finger through a buttonhole. "That's a fact. You do telegraph news to city papers, don't you? I had clean forgot it. Of course important, real important news would be a feather in your cap. I see. And it is a shame if I see a go steady that they won't divide. Now, on this special piece o' news—"

Tarp hesitated and dropped his glance to the toe of his shoe. "Do you mean that you know what it is?" Frank asked eagerly.

Tarp's profile was now toward the inquirer. He seemed to wear a sort of hesitation that was unusual with such an outspoken individual.

"Well, you know, it is like this," he said gravely, twisting his fingers more vigorously in the buttonhole. "I am the main advertiser and chief moneyed support of Daniel's paper. Hillhouse would have busted long before he did if it hadn't been for the hard cash I paid into his till every week, and I am doing even more for the new firm, for they have increased their circulation enormously and print a respectable sheet. So naturally, I reckon, they do sort o' talk free like to me about what is coming, knowing that I keep a lock on my tongue, as you might say. Still, when it comes to a matter of public interest like the fine bit of news they've got ready for tomorrow's issue—well they ought to divide. If they see fit to be hogish I'm not so mighty sure that I am called on to eat out o' the same trough. This is going to bother me some, Frank, for when foul play is being enacted about me I don't like it. I like them fellers, and I'm willing to back them; but they have no right to gobble up news that ought to be free as winds that blow over level ground."

"Ain't she a jim dandy!" Abner exclaimed.

"I'm glad you feel that way, J. L., Frank said warmly, "and since you're all alone to know what they've got up their sleeve, why—"

"Oh, I'm not beholden to them," Tarp interrupted. "The shoe is on the other foot, I'm here to state. They didn't tell me not to mention it either. I have made no promises and if I tell you my conscience will be clear. The item really is a big one—a whopping big one. The only thing I'm afraid of is that half my customers here in town may grab picks and shovels and cut out lickysplit for Elktown and leave me in the lurch."

"Elktown?" Frank repeated. "Has anything happened over there?"

"Has there? Good gosh! Say, Tobe," Tarp was calling to a negro man who was slouching past with a sack of flour on his shoulder—"where did you buy that?"

"Webb & King's," the negro replied, sheepishly, as he faced toward the questioner.

"I know," Tarp smiled decisively. "That is the Golden Glow brand. They are selling it at 90 cents a sack, while we are getting rid of whole car lots to our customers at 80. Tobe, some of these days you coons will learn where to do your trading."

"Maybe so, boss," the negro answered, humbly, and moved on.

"Say, J. L., old man"—Raymond almost with suspended breath returned to the topic in a pleading tone—"you will tell me about that thing, won't you? I may be able to do you a good turn some time."

"I don't care if I do, Frank. I'm a great hand to stand out for fair play. And, as I look at it, it wouldn't do Howard and Daniel a bit of harm to have that news spread all over the civilized world. They will get the cream of it, anyway, for I understand they've got a long, detailed account of it."

Thereupon the merchant gave an adroit version, of the matter, much to the satisfaction of the listener, who, when he had heard the whole story, fairly panted with excitement.

"It is great, isn't it?" he cried. "I heard about that buried gold when I was a little tot at my mother's knee. And to think that it has come to light at this late date!"

"Yes, it is all right, I guess," Tarp said, with the faraway expression in his eyes. "But, after all, it may not be located, for no living man may be able to unravel the letters painted on the rock. I'd put them in my report in proper order, if I was you. It will make the article more exciting. Folks in this day and time are anxious to get hold of any sort of a puzzle, especially if there is something to be made by it."

"The letters—oh, I forgot," Raymond broke in. "Of course I ought to have them. But how could I get hold of 'em?"

"Oh, you see, Frank, I took the trouble to remember them," Tarp said, as he drew a slip of paper and a pencil from his pocket and wrote in the palm of his hand. "Here they are in due order: 'T. D. G. A. G. M. E. S. M. S. D.'"

"Are you sure you got 'em right?" Frank asked as he carefully copied the letters in his notebook. "I wouldn't make a mistake for anything. This will create a big sensation all over the country."

"The letters are all right," Tarp wiped a slight, impulsive smile from his lips. "They could stand for a thousand things as well as one and folks are going to be badly mixed up as to the true meaning. By the way, Frank, while you were confabbing with Ab and Howard did they happen to say how they liked the—the well, the way the article they got was—was shipped up?"

The answer was quickly, shouted with one voice: "Bait!"

"They didn't go into that part." The face of the merchant was set in a mask of expectancy as the reply came. "But if the style was not all it ought to be," Raymond added, "Howard could shape it up. He knows how to scratch out and write in, I tell you. He writes as smooth as goose grease on any topic of current interest."

"He'll let that article stand as it came in," Tarp spoke without thinking. "I mean—that is, I judge from all accounts that the style of the report is at the top notch—breezy, full of ginger. It is of good length, too, I understand, and got up by a writer that knows how to sling ink if—if he does reside in the backwoods."

"Well, I'm much obliged to you, J. L., I really am," Frank said gratefully as they parted in front of Tarp's establishment. "I'm going straight to the telegraph office. You bet I'll heat those wires. I'll pile it in on them too. The big dailies don't mind paying for real news. They may write me to go post-haste over there. If they do I'll get a fast horse and make a dash for the field of action."

The next morning at 10 o'clock the New Clarion in great damp stacks was being folded, wrapped and addressed. "Ain't she a jim dandy!" Abner exclaimed to Howard and Miss Lizzie Swayne as he held the front page up and eyed it with delight for the twentieth time. "A body could read that 'buried treasure' line across the public square."

Half an hour later the paper was being sold on the streets, a thing which had never happened before in the history of Darley journalism. A negro with a bell carried a banner on his shoulder bearing the words, written with a marking brush dipped in lamp-black: "Extra! Great News From Elk-town!"

A little white boy with an armful of papers, timid in his new occupation, was at his heels.

Abner walked along the opposite side of the street, a smile of triumph on his face.

Dinner Stories

Two men were in the dining car ordering breakfast. The first one said to the waiter:

"George, you may bring me two fried eggs, some broiled Virginia ham, a pot of coffee, and some rolls."

"Yassa."

The other said:

"You may bring me the same."

"Yassa."

The second man that called after the waiter and remarked:

"Just eliminate the eggs."

"Yassa."

In a moment the waiter came back.

"Scuse me, boss, but jest what did you say about dem eggs?"

"I said just eliminate the eggs."

"Yassa." And he hurried again to the tiny kitchen.

In another moment he came back once more, leashed confidentially and penitently over the table and said:

"We had a bad accident jest afore we leave de depot dis mornin', boss, an' de liminator done got busted off, right at de handle. Will you take em fried same as dis hyar gemmen?"

The Sunday School teacher was talking to her pupils on patience. She explained her topic carefully, and as an aid to understanding she gave each pupil a card bearing the picture of a boy fishing.

"Ever please," she said, "requires the exercise of patience. See the boy fishing; he must sit and wait and wait. He must be patient."

Having treated the subject very fully she began with the simplest, most practical question the simplest, "And now, can any little boy tell me what we need most when we go fishing?"

The answer was quickly, shouted with one voice: "Bait!"

Money Couldn't Buy It

The relief he personally experienced moved Mr. W. F. Briggs, Kansas, Okla., to write to the Pinus laboratories a letter of appreciation in which he says:

"Fruitola and Traxo helped me so much I am advising all who suffer with gallstones to try them. Money wouldn't buy what this medicine has done for me."

Fruitola is an intestinal lubricant that softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the intense relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day to restore the system that has been weakened by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 West Milwaukee St.

HOW TO SHAVE WITH A SAFETY RAZOR

First be sure you want to shave. A lot of great men have never shaved. If you must shave, the first thing to do is to give your face a strong local anesthetic. It will be better not to have any of your friends or relatives in the operating room. They are apt to make a scene.

Surround yourself with ether. Merely leave eye holes and arm holes in the ether. Then take the blunt side of the safety razor and pound each whisker back into its hole. Pound it with a serious, reproving look on your face, so that it will be very much abashed and ashamed to appear again for several days. The whole aim is to inculcate in the whisker a strong and abiding spirit of reticence.

VETERAN FRED BEEBE BEATS THE WHITE SOX

Allows Three Hits and Roth's Triple in First Nine Games—New York and Brooklyn Split Even.

Cleveland signed up Fred Beebe, a reliable and cost off of major leagues, and Beebe won his spurs again, by defeating the White Sox, 2 to 0, at Cleveland, allowing them but three safe hits. Also to make the defeat more bitter, Bobby Roth, a former Sox player, hit for three bases, winning the game in the first inning.

Dave Danforth started the game for the Sox and when Roth's long hit came, he was released to the bench and Russell put on the mound. The Sox started trying to knock the ball out of the lot, but they failed to touch the offerings of Beebe, for he had regained his old-time speed. Then they tried to wait out Beebe and failed in this style of the game. Mel Wolf was forced to play at short, and his only slip cost the Sox the game.

Rain prevented the White Sox from meeting the Pirates at Chicago, and as a result four games will be played in the next two days by the Cubs. The Chicago Nationals are in no condition for such a series with the Pirates, as Zimmerman is out, along with McCarty and Archer. With Knabe on second, Fischer catching, and Zelder on third, the Cubs will have a patched-up team, and will be weakened through the lack of Zimmerman's hitting.

Brooklyn got an even break with the New York Giants in a double header yesterday, winning 2 to 1, and losing 2 to 1 in a twelve inning pitching battle. In the first game with the score 4 to 0 against them, the Robins batted Perritt, Schauer and Mathewson for eight hits, including two doubles. Mathewson pitched the second game for Brooklyn, and after the Giants had scored one in the first, he held them scoreless.

Two poorly played games resulted in victories for Boston over Philadelphia by the score of 5 to 1 and 9 to 2. Washington defeated New York in eleven innings, by the score of 3 to 5. A base on balls and a double by McBride clinched the game. New York staged an uphill game, and cut down a five run lead. Johnson was sent in to save the game in the eighth, but New York tied the count in the ninth.

Lambeth, pitching for Teneke, broke into the list of no-hit pitchers when he shut out St. Joseph without a safe hit, winning 4 to 0.

MITCHELL MAY GO TO THE PORTLAND CLUB FROM INDIANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cleveland, June 27.—The Cleveland club has obtained on Bill Mitchell, the veteran southpaw, and Manager Fohl is anxious to place him with the Portland Coast team, where a season's work, the Indian leader thinks, will put him in condition for more campaigning in the American league. Mitchell, however, believes he is wanted by a big league club and objects to going to Portland.

NEW YORK GIANTS ARE STARTING FOR THE TOP; HEAVY BATTING THEIR FORTE

After worrying through the early part of the season in a very largid manner the New York Giants are beginning to take on a bit of pep and seem to be determined to reach the top and stay there. A long string of victories on their recent western trip has put lots of the old spirit into the team. Robertson, Burns, Doyle, Rariden and Kauff have done the bulk of the heavy hitting.

MORRIS MILLER

It was back in 1914 when baseball had one of the greatest inside in the game. Stuffy McInnes was the first-sacker, Eddie Collins the second-sacker, Frank Baker the third-sacker, or and Jack Barry the shortstopper. The batter who could push a ground-er through this quartet considered he had earned his salary for the season. The McInnes-Collins-Baker-Barry combination was valued at $100,000 by Connie Mack and there isn't a magnate in either league who would not have paid out $100,000 in cold cash, back in 1914, for that infield. They were 300 hitters and marvelous fielders. But a change came. Collins was sold for $50,000, Baker quit the Athletics, and Barry was sold for $12,000. We drift to this $100,000 infield of today, and we find McInnes batting 185, Barry around 200, Eddie Collins below 250 and Baker cannot climb above the 270 mark.

At Yale they have swimming, lacrosse, football, baseball, soccer, rowing, gymnastics, hockey, trap, shooting, wrestling, basketball, track athletics, golf, cross-country, running, tennis, bowling, handball and tennis, and we know of no other college that takes part in so many forms of sport. Most of them recognized intercollegiate sports. It is a pretty good sign when this healthy general interest can exist without the somewhat artificial stimulus of victory in which respect the Blue has not been conspicuous in late years.

Somebody always is asking which is the better player, Cobb or Collins, or Cobb or Wagner, or Cobb or Lajoie, or Cobb or Speaker. The fact that Cobb always is at one end of the question ought to be sufficient answer.

Baseball managers nowadays carry notebooks in which is recorded how each game is won or lost. Of the 344 big league defeats which have been inflicted at this writing the notebooks show that the umpire is blamed for only 344 but the season is young yet.

The Athletics' after their disastrous performance of ten days previous, found a team they could beat when they stopped in Grand Rapids and played an exhibition game with Bill Essick's Central league team. It took Connie Mack's band ten innings to do it, but it was done, by a score of 2 to 0.

George Sisler, the star of the St. Louis Browns, was badly spilt in a play at first base during the series with the Red Sox and was forced to lay off. It was his first injury of moment since he joined the Browns. Borton went to first and the St. Louis fans realized more than ever how fast Sisler is around the bag.

Willie Mitchell presents the idea that Guy Morton did such a wonderful feat when he struck out four Athletics in one inning recently. Mitchell says that when he was with San Antonio he struck out seven men in one inning, yet four of them scored. Dolly Stark/ was catching him, or that is, was trying to catch the balls Mitchell threw.

Pitcher Carroll Brown, returned to the New York Yankees by the Memphis club was shifted to Rock Mount in the Virginia league, quite a comedown for the former member of the Athletics.

Pitcher Claude (Lefty) Williams of the White Sox was married in Chicago recently to Miss Lyra Wilson of Salt Lake City. The pair became acquainted when Williams was pitching for Salt Lake last year.

Clark Griffith's announcement that he "hoped" to secure Sam Crawford to play first netted nothing but a denial from Detroit, and confirmation of a suspicion that Joe Judge is not all he has been cracked up to be.

Connie Mack has spiked the story that Stuffy McInnes is to be sold to the Boston Red Sox, but Stuffy awakes long enough to say that the deal would not be objectionable to him, since it would locate him nearer his Gloucester home.

In a recent Detroit-Boston game George Burns drove in five of the Tigers' six runs and scored the other one himself, pretty near a record for effectiveness on the offense for a player who wasn't considered good enough for a regular berth before the season opened.

SIR DOUGLAS HAIG PATIENT IN COMMANDING ARMY

No Military Leader Shuns Publicity as Does British Commander in Chief in France.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

British Headquarters, France, June 27.—No military leader is more averse to publicity or works more silently than Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander-in-chief in France. Those who are fortunate to see him find his answer is patience and again patience while the new munition factories begin to produce and continue his building. His general staff say that he never tells them his plans; only what they are to do.

Probably not one man out of ten of the million or more under his command would know what he is doing. Not given to reviews or any kind of display, this quiet and studious Scotsman was the choice of the professional, practical, driving element of the army. He has the element of command, training and experience to succeed Sir John French. At fifty-five he is nine years younger than Sir John and ten years younger than Joffre or von Hindenburg.

There is a story that he entered the army as the result of a boyish wager. He went through Oxford with distinction before he went to the military school at Sandhurst. His choice of arms was the cavalry, which has had so little to do so far in this war. But so little to do that he received his commission, later in life than most officers, because of the time he had spent at Oxford, than he set out with the thoroughness of the student to master every inch of his profession.

Studied German. "It was in Berlin in the nineties that I met a Captain Haig who was studying German and the German army," said an Englishman who knew him. "He was a brilliant man, perhaps, but a sound and well balanced one. A little hesitant of speech; what he did say went to the heart of things."

He studied the German army and the history of all campaigns with the systematic thoroughness that he applied to everything. It was the result of his study that he was chosen to be a lieutenant in the first line of the British army. He was not a soldier, but a man of letters, a man of letters who had made his reputation as a soldier's soldier who had won solid professional esteem though the public had hardly heard of his reserved, unassuming work.

Of the men in command rank in the British army in August, 1914, he and Sir William Robertson—another Scotsman—were the two who were praised by the generation of officers who had developed since South Africa and having no other outlet for their direction of large bodies of troops on the scale of continental warfare. They are not the magnetic, dazzling leaders of the past.

Going out in command of the first army of the British expeditionary force, Sir Douglas had seventeen months experience. Mons, Ypres and the battle of the Marne were his first—while all the operations of the school any soldier has ever known.

Commanded First Army. There was no doubt who commanded the first army. He was not a general, but a man of letters, a man of letters who had made his reputation as a soldier's soldier who had won solid professional esteem though the public had hardly heard of his reserved, unassuming work.

When anyone asked at the front who was the best man to take Sir John's place, the answer was invariably "Haig." He had not captured the army reputation, but he had the reputation of a man of letters.

Like General Joffre he sleeps long hours. A rested mind is a clear mind for a great battle. He never reads fiction. When reading has not to do with his profession it is of serious books and the battle of the Marne were his first—while all the operations of the school any soldier has ever known.

At a crisis of the retreat from Mons he was given the task of holding the line. "We shall have to hold on here for a while if we die for it." There is a scientific basis for these modern scientific soldier organizations. Again during the retreat from Mons he was given the task of holding the line. "We shall have to hold on here for a while if we die for it." There is a scientific basis for these modern scientific soldier organizations.

Speaks of Civil War. The impression on a soldier's face is that of a leader who is not a soldier, but a man of letters, a man of letters who had made his reputation as a soldier's soldier who had won solid professional esteem though the public had hardly heard of his reserved, unassuming work.

When a man is passing through his first love affair he honestly believes there is only one man in the world worth while.

DETROIT PASTOR APPEALS TO YOUTH AT CONVENTION OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27.—Rev. A. S. Rice of Detroit in an address to the national convention of the Anti-Saloon league made an appeal to youth to become aggressively active in church affairs and to unite as leaders in movements fostered and approved by Christian churches. He said the campaign for prohibition was one of these movements.

There is irresistible challenge in a hard task for the eager spirit of youth, said Dr. Rice, whose subject was "The Appeal of Youth." He added: "This accounts for the increasing evident presence of youth in the church today. The emphasis of Christianity is today set on a world-wide program of service rather than a mere salvage of life from the wreckage of a world. That change of emphasis has enlisted the enthusiastic of the youth of the world, because it is a program which means difficulty but which offers the crown of a victory such as can be won only through difficulty."

The greatest complaint that this generation has is that it is not being taken into account. Christ on earth lies clearly in the fact that it has achieved the place of genuine expectation in the whole world's thought. Largely the story of the church has been written in the price of martyrdom and sacrifice, heroically to gain a standing room on earth. The story of our history has been written in the price of martyrdom and sacrifice, heroically to gain a standing room on earth.

There is a story that he entered the army as the result of a boyish wager. He went through Oxford with distinction before he went to the military school at Sandhurst. His choice of arms was the cavalry, which has had so little to do so far in this war.
